This beautiful 17th Century property is steeped with history. Previously owned and run by the towns Brewery, the property acted as a quarters to the Brewery's staff. Upon the Brewery's closure, all three properties in Gallery Mews were purchased by a local businessman who set up a Picture Frame Shop in the front building. As a result of this, the property was turned into a workshop to produce stock for the shop. The property was then converted for residential use around four years ago, now offering a combination of character features and modern utilities.
