PROPERTY HISTORY

The Hermitage, located in the heart of historic old Tonbridge, is steeped in history of more than 500 years. It is Grade II listed on the official register 2 : "C16 timber-framed house, the ground floor rebuilt in red brick and grey headers with restored framing above. Half-hipped tiled roof. Sash windows on the ground floor, the glazing bars intact. Modern casement windows on first floor. Doorway with C18 door of 6-fielded panels, of which the top 2 panels have been cut away and glazed. C19 tiled, pediment-shaped hood added over this, supported on brackets. 2 storeys. 4 windows. Listing NGR: TQ5928246679"

The property is Listed Grade II, the main part of the house is Tudor with Jacobean additions, for example, a carved dated mantelpiece (dated 1617) and exquisite carved wall panels. Despite being Tudor, it is light and spacious with high ceilings.

The garden side of the house is Victorian, with a stunning oak-framed dining room/orangery built in 2012 with views of the extensive gardens.

The present owners have maintained it in a high standard. For example, some of the rotten timbers and plaster panels were replaced in August 2022.

The garden has a historic feature – a part of the medieval towns' wall ('dyke'). Historic England classified it a National Moment in 1953.

The centrepiece is a very large exotic gingko tree, approximately 100 years old. We understand from the owners that it is believed a contemporary of Darwin (Down House, Down) and Rogers (Riverhill house, Sevenoaks) lived here and returned from Asia with a gingko seed in the nineteenth century. Plus, it is believed the tree is one of the largest gingko in Kent
