There are various well stocked flowerbeds with mature shrubs, bushes and established trees and a Rhino Greenhouse. A central lawned area leads to raised beds creating a vegetable plot. An air source heat pump extracts heat from the surrounding environment and transfers it into heat inside the home. It works even with external temperatures well below freezing. According to EDF energy (25.4.2023) they are 3-4 times more efficient than a gas boiler, they provide gentle heating over longer periods rather than quick boosts on demand. They can heat water tanks as well as the radiators or underfloor heating. The solar panels are owned, these provide electricity to the house during daylight hours and there are two batteries which store power which can be used into the evenings.
