"We've lived in Bowden Road for over a decade now, and it's been a wonderful first home. We have a great sense of community on the street. We also love the area, particularly having the park right at the end of the street – it really feels like an extension of our garden, where you can always get the last of the summer sun, or see fireworks across Bristol at New Year. More locally, we have quick access both to Church Road (particularly for baked goods from the Bristol Loaf and books from Small City Book Shop) and Easton (for the Indian deli at Sweetmart). It is also easy to feel that you are quickly in the countryside by walking to Troopers Hill or the river Avon."
