"This home has been cherished by us, as it was our first home together. We were instantly drawn in by the open-plan living space and the parquet flooring—features that continue to be the heart of the home throughout the time we have had it. It's a sociable space, perfect for hosting, and has played host to many cherished moments: birthday dinners, anniversary toasts, Christmas dinners, and even the occasional ceilidh, with friends and family. It's a layout that offers connection as much as flexibility—you can be in different corners of the space, doing your own thing, yet still feel together. One of the home's hidden delights is the cherry blossom tree in the garden. Each spring, it bursts into bloom, transforming the outdoor space into a private oasis."
