A central island unit has a custom built breakfast bar inclusive of additional drawers and storage cabinets arranged under a beech work surface. The flooring is tiled and steps down to the family room and magnificent orangery. Within the family area there is a feature brick fireplace giving evidence of an original oven and housing a wood burning stove. The family room is open to the Orangery which is double glazed and of hardwood construction. There is a central lantern roof with chandelier under and two sets of double doors incorporated within this extensively glazed addition. Window openers are arranged at a high level. A further reception room being either a snug or a playroom is located adjacent to the family room and provides a secondary staircase to the first floor Master bedroom suite. The convenient Boot room is also accessed from the Orangery having half height wall tiling, a fitted cabinet and a door opening to the gardens. An additional Cloakroom with wash basin and WC is available within the Boot room.

The additional bedrooms on this wing provide for one double and one single bedroom, the double room enjoying views over open countryside to the front and the single room providing access to the loft space. Outside

The property is approached down a quiet village lane, the lane terminating to traffic at Chestnut Farmhouse. The frontage is entirely block paved allowing parking for several vehicles and accessing the larger than average brick built garage which has a mezzanine floor, window and personal door into the gardens. A small pair of double gates to the side open to allow more secure parking if required. This area also provides a kitchen garden with raised beds which can also be accessed direct from the property. The gardens are enclosed to all sides by wooden fencing and stone walling. The gardens are of a good size interestingly bisected by a stone wall with a prolific fruit garden to one side and more formal gardens to the other. The fruit garden is well stocked with various trees producing pears, plums, apples and cherries which are neatly defined within clipped privet hedging. A block paved footpath meanders between the fruit trees towards two large sheds at the bottom of the garden which are ideal for storage and workshop usage. The area of more formal garden is predominantly lawned with deep borders of plants and shrubs and a central shrubbery shows conifers and planting. An illuminated pergola stands directly to the rear of the property on an area of hard landscaping being ideal for al fresco dining on those long summer evenings. Flower beds border this sitting area set within a dwarf brick wall.
