Tenure: Freehold / Energy Rating: G / Council Tax Band: D

Canterbury House is a four bedroomed home, believed to date back to the late 19th century, rich in character and local history. Once the heart of the village, the property previously served as both the village shop and post office. Set on a generous plot, the property boasts a large garden and offers excellent potential. Subject to the necessary planning permissions, there may be scope for a building plot to the side of the dwelling—ideal for future development or extended living space. The home is warmed by electric radiators and is serviced by a septic tank.
