Hendersons proudly present the enchanting Railway Cottages, nestled atop the cliffs in the quaint hamlet of Kettleness. This semi-detached, three/four bedroom brick-built cottage is a testament to meticulous renovation, showcasing an impeccable standard of fit and finish. The current owners have also extended it on both sides, transforming it into a spacious haven with expansive open-plan living areas and generously sized guest bedrooms.

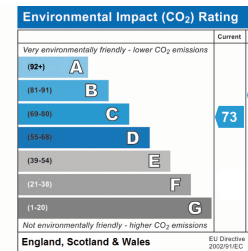

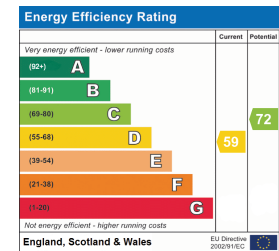

Upon entry, the layout features an inviting entrance porch, a versatile music room/second lounge that could easily double as a bedroom, offering the added convenience of corner services for a potential en-suite. The lounge exudes warmth with its brick fireplace and a Town & Country Stoves' Little Thurlow fire. There is a spacious dining kitchen, boasting spectacular views across to Runswick Bay. Completing the ground floor is a practical utility area and a convenient downstairs w.c.

Ascending the stairs to the first floor reveals a substantial principal bedroom with dual aspect windows capturing breathtaking views, complemented by a luxurious en-suite shower room. Two additional double bedrooms, each boasting panoramic vistas, along with an additional opulent house bathroom. Externally, the property offers ample parking for multiple vehicles and a meticulously landscaped garden, providing a perfect backdrop of the sea and coastline. A flagged area to the front and an open grassed expanse beyond add to the property's charm.
