The Tower

Distinctive Design on Norfolk's Shore

Clean lines, bold shapes, and a balcony calling you to pause and take in the view. This is architecture made for moments - morning coffee with the tide, golden light on warm timber, and the quiet luxury of space to simply be.

A Rich History & Stunning Coast

Peaceful, unspoilt, and framed by one of Norfolk's most beautiful stretches of coastline, Holme-next-the-Sea is a place where the pace of life slows and the horizon seems to stretch forever. With vast skies above and sweeping sands below, it's the kind of village which feels like a well-kept secret - loved by those who know it, and unforgettable to those who visit.

A sought-after coastal location, Holme-next-the-Sea is defined by its huge expanse of beach and surrounding marshes, making it a haven for birdwatchers and nature enthusiasts. The village is also home to The White Horse, a welcoming pub known for good food and a warm atmosphere. History lingers here too - an ancient ring of timbers, discovered after an exceptionally low tide, is believed to be a ritual burial site from Druid times. Known as Seahenge, the structure was carefully removed for conservation and can now be seen at the Lynn Museum in King's Lynn.

Nestled between Old Hunstanton and Thornham, Holme is within easy reach of the amenities in nearby Hunstanton. Established in 1846 by Henry Le Strange as a bathing resort in the Victorian Gothic style, Hunstanton grew in popularity with the arrival of the railway from King's Lynn - an investment which soon became the most profitable rail route in the country.

Today, Hunstanton remains a vibrant seaside destination. Visitors can enjoy the Searles Leisure Resort, take a trip on the Wash Monster, ride the carousel at the fairground, or try their luck on the traditional penny slots. The town's Princess Theatre offers a year-round programme of live performances and film screenings, while golfers can choose from a mini golf course, cliff-top pitch and putt, or the renowned Links course in neighbouring Old Hunstanton.

A New Chapter in Coastal Design

Step into the extraordinary with The Tower - an exceptional and truly unique residence along the prestigious Broadwater Road, overlooking the pristine sandy dunes of Holme-next-the-Sea. A rare gem, this property epitomises the Sowerbys ethos: not merely a house, but a lifestyle waiting to be embraced.

At the heart of this architectural triumph stands the property's namesake - the original period tower, now thoughtfully repurposed as a one-of-a-kind viewing sanctuary. From its elevated vantage point, The Tower offers breath-taking panoramic views across the dunes and out to sea, transforming with the seasons - from golden summer sunsets to the drama of winter tides.

Natural materials - flint, brick, and warm timber - ground this modern design in its coastal setting, while vast glass frontages invite the landscape inside. The first floor hosts an open-plan kitchen, sitting, and dining area, flanked by generous terraces, each framing postcard-perfect views. Downstairs, multiple en-suite bedrooms ensure comfort and privacy for family and guests alike, while utility spaces and a double garage with car port blend practicality with luxury.

Beyond its striking architecture, The Tower offers a life shaped by sea breezes, dune walks, and the tranquil rhythms of Holme-next-the-Sea. Whether as a primary residence or an elegant second home, this is a sanctuary where every day feels like a retreat. Opportunities along Broadwater Road are rare; one with a heritage tower and views like these is rarer still.
