This well presented and deceptively spacious riverside home offers a lot more than first meets the eye.

Remaining in the ownership of the same family since being built in the 1970s, the property was renovated, remodelled and extended in 2008 and now offers comfortable and versatile accommodation that consists of a glass fronted entrance porch, reception hall, and an impressive open plan living space with large fully glazed sliding doors taking you out onto a raised patio with far reaching views out over the garden, mooring and the open countryside beyond.

The multi-zoned living space and sitting area with wood burner, dining area and a fully fitted kitchen with a host of fitted appliances.

There is a generous utility room and side porch. Two ground floor bedrooms served by a four-piece bathroom and access into the garage/workshop. An oak staircase leads up to the first floor with a light and airy study area which gives access to the master bedroom which enjoys far reaching views and has an en-suite shower room.

The property also offers a detached garden room which could be used for anything from a guest annexe to an artist studio to a home office or gym. Self-contained with kitchenette, shower room and bunk room.

The well-stocked riverside garden is laid to lawn and leads down to a private quay headed mooring extending to approximately 50ft including a slipway.

Other features include sealed unit double glazing, air source heat pump with radiator and partial underfloor heating, wooden floors and oak doors.

Set in the quiet and picturesque village of Dilham at the end of navigation but with access to the entire Broads network. The market town of Stalham (4 miles) and North Walsham (5.5 miles) are close by as are Wroxham (6 miles) and Horning (6.3 miles).

Equally suitable as a well appointed permanent home or as a perfectly placed second home, this surprising waterside property needs to be seen to be fully appreciated.
