Location:

Castle an Dinas is an Iron Age hillfort at the summit of Castle Downs near St Columb Major and is considered one of the most important hillforts in the southwest of Britain. It dates from around the 3rd to 2nd century BC and consists of three ditch and rampart concentric rings, 850 feet (260 m) above sea level. The village of St Columb is located circa 1 mile away. St Columb Major is a town and civil parish in Cornwall. Often referred to locally as St Columb, it is approximately seven miles (11 km) southwest of Wadebridge and six miles (10 km) east of Newquay. The designation Major distinguishes it from the nearby settlement and parish of St Columb Minor on the coast. The town is named after the 6th-century AD Saint Columba of Cornwall, also known as Columb.

Twice a year the town plays host to "hurling", a medieval game once common throughout Cornwall but now only played in St Columb and St Ives. It is played on Shrove Tuesday and again on the Saturday eleven days later. The game involves two teams of unlimited numbers (the 'townsmen' and the 'countrymen' of St Columb parish) who endeavour to carry a silver ball to goals set two miles (3 km) apart or across the parish boundary, making the parish, around 17.2 square miles (45 km²) in area, the de facto largest sports ground in the world!

Directions

From St Austell Proceed to Roche passing Trethowel and Carthew on the way. Drive straight through Roche, at the bottom of the hill take the first turning off the roundabout onto Edgcumbe Road (B3274). At the end of the road turn left and proceed down the old A30, under the railway bridge. Follow the road as it bends to the right and pass over the new A30 road. When climbing the hill take the right turn immediately before the turning to the Castle-An-Dinas ancient monument road. The property is located at the end of this private drive.

The gravel walkway flows across the rear of the property, in the far corner leading down the rear of the plot is well enclosed with wood fencing to the left and rear elevations.

Agents Note

We understand the heating for the property is courtesy of the oil fired central heating boiler, electric wall mounted heaters upstairs. The central heating boiler is located in the garage, a floor standing boiler. We understand that the property enjoys private drainage courtesy of a septic tank. There is a pump house half way up the long private drive on the right hand side - this allows water to reach the property from street level. Interested parties are advised that there is a planning application affecting the buildings to the rear of the property - please make enquiries through the Cornwall Council Online Planning Register prior to viewing the property if you are interested. There is a small amount of spray foam insulation in the store room off the ground floor bathroom and the loft area above, this area is also single block construction. Subject to price agreement the Vendor would consider having this removed. Interested parties should also check with any lending source prior to viewing.
