Situation

The land at Tidwell Farm is situated in an elevated rural position within the rolling South Devon countryside. Conveniently located within 3 ½ miles of the popular town of Ashburton and with good access onto the A38 Devon Expressway.

The Land

The land at Tidwell Farm is a single block of three arable fields and four permanent pasture fields as well as a small area of broadleaf woodland and extends in total to 68.25 acres (27.62 hectares) which is available in two convenient lots or as a whole.

The fields are bordered predominately by solid Devon hedge banks with some tree growth interspersed and some only by stock proof fencing.

The whole of the land has recently been fully stock proof fenced with sheep netting and two strand barbed wire on treated wooden posts throughout.

The eastern section of the land (Lot 1) is arable and registered organic being predominately south and west facing to the south and gently north facing and free draining to the north with a small section of woodland/copse to the mid-section.

The western section of the land (Lot 2) is mostly permanent pasture being a secluded valley which is bisected by a natural water supply from the stream with a further arable field to the south-west.

The land offers potential for current agricultural, equestrian, recreational and amenity use, subject to necessary consents and permissions being obtained.

Lot 1 (Identified edged red on the attached plan)

Primarily a block of arable land which has been registered organic with a small area of broadleaf woodland/copse to the mid-section and extending in total to 22.34 acres (9.04 hectares). The arable land is comprised of two good size fields totalling 21.90 acres (8.86 hectares) with an attractive area of broadleaf woodland to the mid-section extending to a further 0.44 acres (0.18 hectares). The land benefits from good access from the Landscope to Ashburton road to the east.
