LOCATION

Townhead Industrial Estate is located on the southern outskirts of Rothesay, on Townhead, an extension of High Street running between the ferry terminal to the north and south towards the rural, southern end of Isle of Bute. The locality is mixed use in its nature with neighbouring industrial occupiers including Bute Island Foods, whilst Rothesay Primary School, Rothesay Leisure Centre and Victoria Hospital, are all located nearby.

Rothesay is the principal town on the Isle of Bute and lies to the east of the island. There is a regular ferry service from Rothesay to Wemyss Bay on the mainland. The town has a resident population in the region of 5,000.

DESCRIPTION

The former 'Flexible Technology' premises in Townhead Industrial Estate, comprise of two detached industrial buildings built in the 1980s and contained within an irregular shaped site extending to 0.93 hectares (2.3 acres), or thereby, with on-site car parking and yard space.

The 'West' main building is a detached, steel portal framed factory premises with an internal eaves height of 3.15 m (10'4"), compartmentalised internally for its previous use, with ground and first floor offices to the front elevation and a basement plant room.

The 'East' building is a steel portal framed, detached, double bay workshop with vehicle access door and an internal eaves height of 5m (16' 5"). The building is split internally to create a series of private rooms and offices.
