Originally constructed in 1903, this period seven-bedroom property is located in a quiet yet highly convenient area for local amenities, mainland travel links, and golden sandy beaches. The property has been renovated, updated, and restored over 14 years by the current owners including restoration of period features, updating central heating, electrics, plumbing, and kitchens and bathrooms. The expansive accommodation is arranged with a flowing layout comprising a porch leading into one of the reception rooms which leads through to the hall, providing access to two further reception rooms, a conservatory, the kitchen diner, the utility room, pantry, and the rear lobby with access to the ground floor cloakroom. A stairwell from here leads to the bathroom, four double bedrooms (one with an en-suite), the shower room, a separate cloakroom and the airing cupboard. A further stairwell goes up to the second-floor landing, two more double bedrooms, and a single bedroom which provides access to the attic space. Outside, there is a generous wrap around garden with a fantastic lawn to the rear plus a secluded section of garden which lends itself perfectly to growing vegetables. The front of the property offers ample parking for three vehicles plus the potential to create more, if desired.

Located in a conservation area on the western tip of the Isle of Wight, close to the world famous Needles rocks and Tennyson Down, and a short distance from the seaside towns of Freshwater and Yarmouth, this property enjoys a peaceful position in the village of Totland which is a popular spot for walkers, birdwatchers and those who enjoy the tranquillity of rural surroundings. The property is just a short stroll away the picturesque beach of Totland Bay which enjoys clear turquoise waters and is ideal for swimming. There is also a wonderful pub located on the sea wall serving freshly prepared Mediterranean cuisine and a popular café restaurant situated on the old Totland Pier, providing a great place to eat as you watch the sun sink below the horizon. The village has a general store, post office and a range of other shops, and is served by Southern Vectis buses on route 7 and 12 which connect with Freshwater, Yarmouth and Newport including intermediate villages. During the summer months, an open-top 'Needles Breezer' bus tour also serves the village. The Wightlink car ferry from Yarmouth is only a 10 minute drive away and connects to the mainland via Lymington, and a Red Funnel foot passenger service from Cowes and car ferry service from East Cowes to Southampton are located just over half an hour away.
