Further information

The flat is subject to a Section 106 Agreement under affordable housing rules. This means the flat must be sold or let at 35% below market value. The asking price takes this into account already, as does the current tenancy, but this must be upheld by the new owner.

Further details of the Section 106 Agreement are available to view via the selling agent.

Details of individual rents achieved and yields are also available via the selling agents who currently manage the property.

Tenure

Upon the sale of the property a new lease will be granted by the freeholder. Details of this have not been finalised but the buyer's solicitor will be able to scrutinise the details during the conveyancing process.
