Cavendish Ikin trading as Cavendish Estate Agents Ltd.

A very spacious and versatile five-bedroom house together with large detached garage/workshop with upper floor studio and home office, further detached hobby/studio with potential for conversion, detached double garage, informal grounds, pastureland and an extensive area of native woodland extending down to the River Terrig, the whole extending to about 16.85 acres.

Nestling in a secluded and picturesque rural environment in the valley of the River Terrig, adjoining an Area of outstanding beauty (AONB), it is set off a minor country lane approximately 1.5 miles from the village of Llanarmon-yn-lâl and within 1 mile of the A5104 Corwen to Chester Road, ideal for those seeking rural seclusion yet direct access towards Chester, Wrexham and beyond.

THE GROUNDS

Set back from the lane, it is approached over a long sweeping daffodil and silver birch lined drive extending to the house, adjoining buildings and around to one side providing access to the grounds, pastureland and beyond to woodland. It is a predominately rural setting with far reaching south and easterly views across rolling countryside and beyond towards Liverpool and on clear days the Anglican cathedral is clearly visible.

THE HISTORY

Abertairnant was originally a traditional Welsh hill smallholding located about 1000ft above sea level. A modest early 19th century building the original farmhouse and adjoining dairy were mainly demolished and rebuilt in circa 2010-2015. As you approach it down the sweeping drive the original stone farmhouse comes into view, it is traditional looking but thoroughly modernised and provides a very spacious and versatile home combining features associated with a period house with modern amenities.

The house has strong green credentials with high levels of insulation with Smart Home Assistance, approximately 3.6kw of photovoltaic panels, an oil boiler with 'Smart' underfloor heating to the ground floor and a concealed rainwater harvesting system. The extensive woodland and maturing coppice provide sufficient timber to be self-sufficient for the wood burning stove. Additionally, the property benefits from Ultra Fast fibre broadband, ensuring connectivity for modern living.

THE ENTRANCE

The house opens from an out-built porch into a day room with long hallway leading towards a fine staircase and landing. the lounge is a very spacious, light and airy room with high vaulted and painted beamed ceiling, large picture windows providing aspect over the land, distant views of "The Wirral", and a striking brick-built inglenook style fireplace. The lounge extends through to a large conservatory with glazed doors opening to a south and eastern side of the house and garden.

hardstanding's and a purpose-built tractor shed. The land is divided into several large field enclosures principally laid down to flower meadows suitable for summer grazing and cropping.

WOODLAND

In circa 2010, the land leading down towards the river were extensively planted with over 1600 native trees to provide a coppice and woodland. Now maturing it contains a mixture of up to 13 species providing a mixture of native woodland trees through which a beautiful woodland walk was created which follows the contours of the land towards a secluded glade and purpose built timber framed cabin, 'The Fallen Ewe'. It is an idyllic setting with something to enjoy in all seasons with a profusion of native plants and bulbs and is a lovely place to while-away summer evenings.

Just beyond the land slopes steeply down into the valley of the River Terrig which forms the eastern boundary of the property. It is an area with a wealth of natural fauna and a haven for wildlife.
