Nansledan comprises a blend of 2, 3, 4, and 5 bedroom houses and apartments. Within a 218 hectare site to the east of Newquay over time it will create a new urban extension to the town on land owned by the Duchy of Cornwall. Its prime objective is to meet the future local business, housing, educational and health needs of the town in a sustainable way.

Nansledan, which is Cornish for broad valley, is being delivered in partnership by the Duchy of Cornwall and a consortium of South West-based house building companies. Constructed in a time-honoured style these brand new homes will be both visually appealing and built with the area's existing architectural heritage in mind using modern thinking and the latest techniques to create a 21st century benchmark of energy efficiency, comfort and security. The vision of Nansledan is to create a sense of place with character and distinction, which people are proud to call their home.

Please Note - Photos are of the show homes, final spec and finish subject to change on each plot. There is also a choice of finishing's on plots subject to early reservations.
