INTRODUCTION

Truly unique is this simply stunning mews house which features a former water tower, part of the outstanding conversion of "The Stables" to Raywell House which was designed by the esteemed architect Marmaduke Pycock of Wakefield in the early 19th century and became the home of Daniel Sykes, MP for Hull and Beverley and a prominent anti-slavery campaigner.

This delightful environment includes 6 acres of managed communal grounds skirted by woodland being accessed through automated gates, along a sweeping tree lined driveway which leads past Raywell House and onto "The Stables". The main house is of historic importance and is Grade II listed whilst "The Stables" behind, and therefore the subject property are not.

Unique in many ways, Apartment 1 is effectively of a house design having its own direct entrance from the courtyard and provides principle accommodation over two floors with a further staircase leading up to the study/bedroom 3 on the second storey which lies within the former water tower. The current owners have comprehensively refurbished this lovely home in recent years and the beautifully appointed accommodation extends to in excess of 1,300sq.ft. Full of character and period features including some vaulted ceilings blend exquisitely with an array of high quality fittings, the accommodation briefly comprises a lovely entrance hallway, downstairs cloaks/W.C., superb 21 foot long living room with double doors providing direct access out to a patio and the gardens and a particular feature is the dining kitchen complete with an extensive range of high quality units and Siemens appliances. Upon the first floor are two bedrooms, both served by en-suites. A further staircase from the landing leads up to the study/bedroom 3.

HISTORY

The Stables and Raywell House sit within 6 acres of beautiful parkland bounded by woodland, 6 miles to the north west of the city of Hull. Accessed across a sweeping tree line and gated driveway, this striking 19th century main house and stables has been beautifully developed in recent times into luxurious apartments to both buildings, taking full advantage of the attractive location and historical features of the site. Raywell House itself is now a Grade II listed building having historical importance, originally designed by Marmaduke Ward Pycock of Hull and Daniel Sykes (a well renowned MP for Hull and Beverley and an anti slavery campaigner) took up residence in 1803.

LOCATION

Surrounded by rolling countryside, Raywell House and The stables is conveniently located only a few minutes drive away from Cottingham and Willerby Shopping Park which includes a Waitrose store. The area is dotted with picturesque villages and Raywell is in easy driving distance of the market town of Beverley, famous for its Minster which dominates the skyline. It is a major shopping destination for the region with its mix of well known high street names and specialist retailers, enhanced further by the recently opened Flemingate Shopping Centre. Beverley racecourse on the 550 acre Westwood add to the town's character. The attractive villages of Cottingham, Swanland, Kirk Ella and West Ella together with the city of Hull and the Humber Bridge are within good proximity. East Yorkshire itself is a county of contrast with dramatic coastline landscapes and the chalk uplands of the Yorkshire Wolds. The area offers plenty of scope for outdoor pursuits - walking, sailing, cycling and there are three private golf courses within a 3 mile radius.
