Seller Insight

“ The captivating views from the front of the property, particularly at the top of the orchard, were a significant draw for us. From there, you can gaze upon the sprawling Bulmers orchards and the picturesque Malvern Hills. The area is also a haven for walkers, with many trails including the Martley circular walk adding to its charm.

As a keen gardener, the garden has been one of my favourite aspects of living here. We've designed it to be as easy to maintain as possible, using terram throughout the planting areas and bark to help manage weeds. The serene environment and the thoughtful layout make it a joy to tend to and relax in.

The sitting room is a beloved spot, offering a beautiful view out to the front of the house. It's a cosy space where we can unwind and enjoy the tranquil surroundings. The house boasts a large kitchen, perfect for family gatherings and entertaining friends. It allows everyone to sit around the table while preparing food. Additionally, the dining room offers ample space for hosting larger groups, making it a welcoming environment for social events.

The layout of the house has been designed to ensure comfort and sufficient space for everyone to have their own time when needed. The decor in greys, blues, and whites creates a calm and relaxing atmosphere, tailored to our tastes and lifestyle.

Bearwood has been our haven for approximately 26 years, offering a sanctuary from the stresses of running a structural steelwork business. The garden, with its various spaces to relax, walk, or simply sit, has been a vital part of our daily routine, providing much-needed respite and peace.

The house is bright throughout the day, thanks to the windows and French doors on three sides of the living room. This design allows natural light to flood the spaces, creating a warm and inviting ambiance.

The outdoor spaces are quiet and peaceful, with neighbours not being too close. The patio area is a "walled area" that traps the sun, making it an excellent spot for tanning with shaded areas available if needed. The garden's design offers both sunny and shaded areas, catering to various preferences throughout the day.

While we haven't hosted many notable events, the house has been perfect for accommodating friends and family for weekends and large gatherings. The ample bedrooms and spacious living areas have made it a comfortable place for our grandchildren and guests.

We have made several significant improvements to the home, including the addition of an oak-framed porch and the extension of the bedroom to include a Jack and Jill ensuite. This year, we completed the block-paved drive and planting areas, complemented by electric gates.

The neighbourhood offers a sense of community, with the village shop in the centre of Martley just a 45-minute walk away. Although we work full-time and don't know many people, the local farmer who lives five minutes away is a friendly and familiar presence. Martley Leisure Centre offers a gym and various classes, providing opportunities for fitness and social interaction. The cricket ground and village hall in Martley host numerous activities throughout the year, fostering a strong sense of community.

Bearwood's location has been ideal for us. The local school, The Chantry, has a good reputation, and both of my nieces attend there. The house's proximity to essential services and amenities has been a significant advantage, making it a convenient and enjoyable place to live.*

Outside:

The property is approached through electrically operated gates and into a large driveway with parking for several vehicles. There is a spacious double garage with a storeroom. The current owners use the garage as a home gym and extra storage.

The gardens to the rear have been tastefully and thoughtfully designed and have a range of mature trees, shrubs and flowers beds with a stunning waterfall feature. A large patio provides various entertaining areas and a steel pagoda with an opening slatted roof providing a perfect spot for all weather enjoyment. A wooden BBQ hut has heating and lighting and provides an alternative space for socialising with friends and family.

For the keen gardeners there are raised beds and a fruit cage, as well as a sturdy greenhouse, wooden shed and poly tunnel. There are also external dog kennels. Lawned areas and fruit trees are found to the rear of the growing areas - and there is a bench at the very top to enjoy the sunsets and outstanding views across the fields of Worcestershire.
