

At a time where health and personal space are so entwined, The Clay Yard seeks to provide a refuge from the intensity of city living – a place to relax and unwind, to recharge and revitalise.

Creating an environment that instils a sense of wellbeing is core to our philosophy. Capturing that essence in nature which brings us calm and tranquillity through the interplay of light, colours, materials, patterns and textures – all are key to creating a home that welcomes, soothes and recuperates.

Redefining the ways in which we live, work, rest and play, this new development of 106 apartments situated in the heart of West Hampstead village embraces the concept of ‘wellness’ through design.

Welcome to The Clay Yard.

From the earth –

Taking inspiration from a neighbourhood where the production of natural materials once flourished, with tile and brick kilns providing the building blocks of old London, The Clay Yard celebrates a more respectful and natural approach to contemporary living.

In a world dominated by technology, synthesised materials and mass manufacturing, the beautiful simplicity of clay and the forms it creates, act as a reminder that it is often the small, simple, natural things in life that can bring us joy.

Inspired by wellness –

Much of our time is spent inside, whether at work, play or at rest, and the atmosphere of these spaces influences our mood, our behaviour and our happiness.

Bringing the outside world in, feeling a sense of light and peace, are fundamental principles within our design. Careful planning has gone into every detail to create spaces that are clear, light, full of tactile elements and natural materials. Going home should be a soft embrace, a quiet haven of calm and solace enabling you to restore and recharge.

Uplifting light –

Light plays a huge part in stimulating and engendering a sense of well-being.

Focusing on this relationship, each apartment features large windows maximising access to natural light, supplemented by dimmable lighting to create the perfect environment, regardless of the time of the day. Bathrooms feature specialist Halo lighting along with soft, mood lighting options to help unwind and relax.

Naturally tactile –

Spaces have been designed with materials, patterns and textures that engage and interact with the senses. From the limewashed walls and textured tiles in the bathrooms, to kitchen cabinets combining textured bronze and matt lacquer finishes.

The finishing touch is beautiful, engineered oak flooring (PEFC certified), gently heated through underfloor heating to create the perfect visual and sensory experience.

Everything in its place –

A clear, uncluttered space has been proven to provide a calm and productive environment. As such careful consideration has been taken to ensure plentiful amounts of intelligently designed storage space throughout.

Generous fitted wardrobes feature to master and second bedrooms whilst kitchens incorporate specific solutions for utensils, spices and waste recycling. Additional storage is provided in separate utility and storage cupboards.

Soothing tones –

The relationship between colour and mood has long been established and is another key factor within the design philosophy.

Careful consideration has been made to ensure a palette of soothing and complementary tones. From the teal accents in the bathroom, a colour shown to promote balance and restfulness, to the warmth of the kitchen cupboards enhanced by a two-tone splashback that furthers a sense of intimacy.

Masterplan –

The Clay Yard spans two separate buildings, The Heights and The Mansions, set within a serene community courtyard garden. Apartments offer one, two or three bedrooms and all benefit from private balconies, terraces and or winter gardens as indicated.

The Heights extends ten floors above ground level and comprises 40 apartments whilst 66 apartments occupy five storeys at The Mansions. The main reception area, resident's lounge and gym are conveniently located on the ground floor of The Heights and are accessed via the shared courtyard.

The Clay Yard has been built with sustainability in mind, various technologies have been used to minimise environmental impact and to make your home more efficient and economical. Low carbon air source heat pumps have been installed where possible as a renewable energy alternative to fossil fuel heating systems. The apartments are lit with energy saving LED lighting whilst dual flush plates and low flow taps improve water efficiency without conceding comfort.

The external areas, and specifically the planting, have been designed to bring a significant biodiversity gain including wild habitat creation to encourage nature to thrive. Residents are fully supported in their sustainable practices with integrated composting and recycling bins, cycle storage and e-bike charging points as well as an on-site food bank collection point.

A true urban community –

Long famous as a thriving and friendly community in the heart of London, West Hampstead is envied for its genuine ‘village’ atmosphere. The community is centred around West End Lane with a perfect mix of shops and eateries, this is one of West Hampstead’s oldest roads, dating back to the Middle Ages.

Today West End Lane is abuzz with a rich selection of independent shops, cafés, patisseries, restaurants, delis, studios and salons - with few of the large chains that can so often disrupt a neighbourhood feel.

This wonderful mix of local, independent businesses creates a unique and vibrant atmosphere. Hampstead Village, Belsize Park, Queens Park and St Johns Wood are all close by, providing the perfect Sunday walk – with the occasional stop for coffee and a treat.

Dining out or eating in –

Spoilt for choice with world food and whole food right on your doorstep West Hampstead provides a plethora of choice. From a laid-back brunch to fine dining every taste and occasion is catered for: authentic Italian to Lebanese mezze, vegan to Vietnamese, there is temptation on every corner.

And for dining in, the Saturday farmers market offers the best of fresh, seasonal and organic ingredients, the wide range of producers cover everything from fruit and veg to fish and flowers. Complemented by a wealth of local delis, supermarkets and specialist purveyors, perfect to top up with ingredients foraged from The Clay Yard garden.

Health, fitness & fulfilment –

Complementing the private on-site gym, West Hampstead offers every kind of studio and training class that you could desire, from high-intensity training to mindful meditation.

A wide range of studios and classes are available to suit every technique, taste and temperament. You can also benefit from the support of local specialist practitioners in physiotherapy, osteopathy and nutrition.

Time for a treat –

For those times when you need a little more indulgence – whether it’s a hot stone massage or an evening out, there’s plenty of temptation locally.

From nail bars to cocktail bars to cosy pubs, everyone deserves a more decadent kind of relaxation from time to time and the options are endless, both locally in West Hampstead and within easy reach in Central London.

Culture & concerts –

There’s plenty to while away the hours, from browsing independent bookshops to an evening at West Hampstead Arts Club. Summer concerts at Kenwood House are a must, surrounded by an elegant landscape showcasing sculptures by Barbara Hepworth and Henry Moore.

Long synonymous with high art, soak up the character of neighbouring Hampstead with its theatres, galleries, historic sites and majestic architecture or venture a short distance to enjoy central London’s world class cultural scene.

World class education –

London has long been envied for its educational excellence, with many of the world leading universities based here. With over 40 university establishments to choose from finding the perfect speciality could not be more opportune, whether it be medicine or media, fashion or finance, art or architecture, the best universities are right on the doorstep.

Space to walk and unwind –

West Hampstead is surrounded by some of London's most revered green spaces. In contrast to the manicured gardens of Regents Park the wilds of Hampstead Heath feature untamed terrain, woodlands and ponds and even opportunities for an open water swim.

Parliament Hill offers a spectacular panorama from one of the highest natural viewpoints of London, although many would argue the views from Primrose Hill, also within easy walking distance, are second to none.

Designed for living –

Kitchens – Practical and luxurious

Kitchens at the Clay Yard form sociable and creative hubs integrated within the living spaces. Contrasting textures and complementary colour palettes create a blissful environment to prepare fresh and nourishing meals.

Individually designed layouts feature gently textured bronze high level cabinets with base and tall cabinets in a matt lacquer finish. Natural quartz composite work surfaces incorporating Blanco undermounted stainless steel sinks and matt black instant boiling water taps are complimented by a full height two tone splashback and concealed feature LED lighting. Space and usability are maximised with generous storage, customisable accessories rail, integrated recycling bin and a separate worktop bin for compostable waste.

Bedrooms – Space to unwind

Spacious havens of calm with soft tones, master and second bedrooms include integrated wardrobes finished with matt lacquer doors and knurled brass handles ensuring the rooms remain uncluttered and restful. Good quality sleep is closely connected not only to overall health and enhanced well-being but also improved concentration and productivity.

A wooden chair with a cane backrest, positioned near the glass door. It holds a vase of flowers and a stack of books, including one titled "200 WOMEN".

A large bed with a gold-toned headboard featuring a woven texture. The bed is dressed in white linens and a beige throw blanket. It is positioned against a light-colored wall.

A bedside table with a lamp. The lamp has a white shade and a glass base. It is positioned near the head of the bed.

A large, round, woven rug in a light beige color, placed under the bed.

Large, light-colored curtains hanging from a dark metal rod. The curtains are partially drawn, allowing natural light to enter the room.

A glass door leading to a balcony. The door is framed in white and has a wooden handle. The balcony has a wooden railing and a brick wall.

Bathrooms – A tranquil haven

Combining materials, colour, and mood lighting the bathrooms provide the ultimate place to rejuvenate in the morning or to relax at the end of the day. Limewash, a paint formed from clay, minerals and natural pigments creates a uniquely textured and visually stimulating feature wall. Neutral tones provide a background for teal accents, a colour chosen for its calming properties.

Walk-in showers feature glass screens with brushed brass fittings complemented by contemporary square-formed wash basins and wall hung soft close WCs with concealed cisterns. Lighting combinations include a wall mounted halo fitting alongside diffused LED feature strips to create a softer restorative mood.

Let the outside in -

The closer in contact we are to nature the more relaxed we feel. The buildings are set within a beautiful courtyard garden, an area that in itself provides peace and tranquillity, however every apartment also has its own area to connect to the outdoors.

Whether it be a balcony, a terrace or a winter garden, every resident has a private place to unwind and find a moment of serenity, whether it be from sitting back and enjoying the sunlight or tending to your flowers and plants, the space is yours to enjoy.

Space to breathe –

The courtyard and external approach, designed by award winning garden designers, are focused on stimulating a sense of wellbeing through both the ambience and the planting, but also by how the residents will interact with the space.

Designed as a space to enjoy, there is a timber pergola providing soft shading whilst benches are scattered amongst the bedding scheme, providing quiet spaces for reading, soaking up the sun or just enjoying the ambience.

Foraging will be encouraged with a wealth of herbs, edible species and fruit trees providing fresh and seasonal produce. A community tool shed will enable any keen, green fingered residents to participate in maintaining the area, whilst a community composting scheme provides an opportunity for residents to both recycle food waste and to benefit from the end result.

Peaceful walks –

The courtyard also provides direct access to Maygrove Peace Park. Dedicated as a symbol of peace, The Clay Yard, will create a new public space directly linking the grounds to the park. The symbolism of having the park on our doorstep could not be more appropriate to our philosophy.

Residents' amenities –

The Clay Yard provides a unique array of amenities for residents aimed to encourage a sense of well-being and cohesive living. From the soft scenting of the main entrance to the gentle, ambient lighting of the communal spaces, the first step through the door will start the process of decompression.

Facilities are designed to help manage the changing nature of today's work / life balance, with a residents' app and part-time concierge service to ensure the smooth running of the estate.

The residents' lounge offers an inviting and flexible space to relax with friends or to work remotely. This provides owners with the luxury of a separate business space, an environment in which to be focused and motivated.

The private on-site gymnasium supports the physical health and wellness of the community. The flexibility to exercise when it suits you in luxurious surroundings curated to stimulate and energise.
