£625,000

A superb detached character former farmhouse together with a range of traditional former farm buildings set within 1/3 of acre in an idyllic semi rural setting within 500 metres of the local pub, church and village hall of Llanelian village, surrounded by open countryside, enjoying extensive coastal views.

INSPECTION HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

Tenure: Freehold - EPC G - Council Tax G

Bryn Person presents a rare opportunity to purchase a historic farmhouse located within two minute walk from the sought after rural village of Llanelian and one and a half mile of Old Colwyn, A55 Expressway, local reputable schools and amenities.

Occupied by the family for 85 years and never before been on the open market. The family first came to live in Bryn Person in 1940 as tenant farmers when the farm was owned by the Coed Coch estate, and was subsequently purchased by the family in 1978. The house has been lived in by the present owners since 1983 who ran a turf production business from the property until 2023, including the storage of machinery and sale of products associated with the landscaping business.

A unique opportunity to acquire this property whether it be as a family home or for those seeking the space to run a suitable business.

The property boasts a range of original features including an inglenook fireplace and exposed beams.

The property includes a range of traditional stone outbuildings attached to the main farmhouse, and a large detached modern built agricultural building to the rear of the dwelling which are suitable for business use or conversion subject to relevant planning permissions.
