The attic has been converted to accommodate a generous master bedroom and the ground floor extended to create additional living space. There really is space for all the family to work, rest and play here, you can utilise the rooms as you wish. The front door opens to a front porch which creates separation between outside and inside. The central hallway has oak doors which radiate to all rooms and are complemented by the oak effect flooring. Glazed panels allow the light to flow through the ground floor.

Living Space

The front lounge is large and relaxing. Fresh, modern décor and a coal effect fire create a relaxing feel and for those who want a separate, private reception room it is perfect. Equally some may prefer to have the room as a large ground floor bedroom. The main living area and real heart of the home is the large open plan rear living space which incorporates dining space, relaxed living area and sleek modern kitchen. The living space looks out over the landscaped garden and to the grazing land behind. Oak effect flooring extends through the kitchen and dining space, the living space is carpeted. Stairs with a striking glass balustrade and LED lighting lead up to the first floor.

Kitchen & Utility

The kitchen is high spec, sleek and modern. Contemporary cabinets, tiled splash backs and integrated appliances create an impressive finish. The utility room has sliding patio doors which open to the landscaped rear garden and with a window to the rear as well it is light and bright.

Bedrooms & Shower Room

The bedrooms are doubles. The front bedroom on the ground floor is currently used as a home office with the master bedroom occupying the full first floor with loft style living. Three Velux windows create a light, airy space. The shower room has also been updated by the current vendors and finished in striking grey stone effect wall tiling. High end fittings create a luxurious feel.
