Summary

A stunning example of a traditional and imposing pre-war house which offers elegant, yet contemporary accommodation. Dunkeld road is renowned for its large dwellings set in spacious grounds and this is no exception.

The house alone extends to nearly 3,000 square feet and the current home owners have created a feeling of timeless tradition but with a modern ambiance. There is an impressive semi open plan kitchen dining room which both have French style doors opening onto the garden.

The kitchen features a centre island with breakfast bar and door leading to a great sized walk-in pantry / utility room. The ground floor also features a formal lounge with Southerly aspect again backing onto the garden and a separate further reception room currently used as a study. There is hardwood oak flooring throughout and there are a total of five bedrooms and four bathrooms.

The garden is level and South facing and features a bespoke garden studio which can also be used as a bedroom, complete with bathroom. At the end of the garden there is a shed with a plenty of storage and private sun terrace and a manicured lawn and planting finish off this wonderful home.
