Property Introduction

Approached via a pillared portico, there are four double size bedrooms and a family bathroom on the first floor, the principal bedroom featuring an en-suite shower room.

The sitting room enjoys a dual aspect, there is a well appointed kitchen/dining room which has a comprehensive range of kitchen units and a dividing archway leads to a further reception room which is ideal for use as a study or home office.

Accessed from the sitting room is a sun lounge which overlooks the rear garden and from the kitchen is a utility room, cloakroom and access to the integral garage.

As one would expect there is full uPVC double glazing and the property is warmed by a gas boiler supplying radiators.

To the outside there are well tended gardens to the front and rear, the rear of the property borders farmland and there is driveway parking available in front of the integral garage and an additional parking space is available at the entrance to this select development.

This is a rare opportunity to acquire a stunning family home in a favoured residential location, viewing our interactive tour is strongly recommended prior to arranging a closer inspection.

Location

Situated on the Falmouth side of the town and conveniently located for country walks along the mineral tramway footpath and cycle way, the town is within walking distance. Redruth is ideally located for access to the A30, there is a mainline Railway Station with direct links to London Paddington and the north of England and schooling for all ages is available within the town. Redruth offers a mix of local and national shopping outlets together with banks and a Post Office and it is home to Kresen Kernow which houses the largest collection of Cornish archive material and is a mecca for those researching their family history.

The north coast at Portreath, which is noted for its sandy beach and active harbour is nearby and Falmouth which is on the south coast is within an easy commute as is the centre of Truro, which is the main administrative and shopping centre for Cornwall.
