The accommodation comprises of an entrance porch giving access into a spacious lounge/diner leading a ground floor shower room, fitted kitchen whilst to the first floor are two bedrooms enjoying distant views.

Externally to the rear is a terraced garden.

Location

Located in the highly desirable village of Devoran is this charming end terrace character property. The village offers an array of pleasant walks taking you down onto the quay with views towards Carnon Mine. The Old Tram Road from Devoran to Point takes in delightful river views, this being popular with kayakers accessing Carrick Roads leading to Mylor and Malpas. Within the village is the popular Old Quay Inn renowned for its excellent food with the village hall being the main hub of the community which holds regular social events.

Devoran is also ideally positioned for both north and south coasts, the north renowned for its rugged coastal walks and popular with surfers whilst the south coast offers sheltered beaches with excellent sailing waters. Truro lies approximately five miles away being the main centre in Cornwall for business with well known commercial outlets set alongside independent traders. Truro is also home to the Hall for Cornwall on the piazza and has a mainline railway station to London Paddington.
