Property Introduction

A beautifully presented three storey house set on this historical development, arranged over three floors and finished to a very high standard with underfloor heating to the ground floor, 'Roca' sanitary ware and solid oak doors throughout.

Comprising four bedrooms, bathroom, shower room, ground floor cloakroom, office, beautiful lounge/diner and a galleried kitchen. From the lounge/diner you can walk out onto a full width balcony and there is a communal garden to the rear and there are also two Juliet balconies to the bedrooms on the upper level.

To the outside there is a parking space and an additional space to the rear in the car park.

Location

Located beside the River Kennal in Perranarworthal, equidistant between Truro and Falmouth, this beautiful development is steeped in history. Having been owned by the Fox family in the 1700's, who manufactured a range of mining implements and steam engines, the site was once an important industrial site and has been lovingly and carefully restored. There is a popular Public House close by and the Bissoe Trail that is popular with cyclists and dog walkers alike.

The City of Truro has a good range of main and individual shops, banks and restaurants and a mainline railway that connects further down through Cornwall and up to London Paddington. The thriving villages of Mylor Bridge and Perranwell Station are also close by and the beautiful coastline town of Falmouth is just over five miles away.
