Description

A ring fenced block of lovely accessible deciduous woodland together with a 1.39 acre lake, wide grass rides and excellent stone tracks on the outskirts of Denby.

The native woodland on the site was established approximately twenty years ago, and is an intimate mix of species, including silver birch, willow, alder, hawthorn and hazel. The attractive woodland is now well established, that together with the accessible location, and quality of the internal access rides, provides scope for a range of leisure, recreational and commercial uses, subject to necessary planning consents. The woodland is complimented by the lake that is fringed by bullrushes and native trees. The lake currently accommodates c.20 fishing pegs on the north bank and has been used as a mixed coarse fishery by a local fishing club.

The woodland is at a stage where there is considerable scope to manage it to accord with the purchasers objectives (subject to the relevant legislation), and the internal access tracks, and roadside access lends the site to a range of possible applications, subject to the necessary consents.
