SCHOOL HOUSE

A Timeless Masterpiece in the Heart of Alkmonton

THE

ACCOMMODATION

Nestled in the picturesque village of Alkmonton, “The School House” is an exquisite Grade II listed residence that seamlessly blends historic charm with modern luxury. Originally built as the village school in 1856, this remarkable four-bedroom detached home has been meticulously renovated to the highest standards, offering an unrivaled living experience for those who appreciate period elegance and contemporary sophistication. Boasting four reception areas, the property is flexible and works for the modern family home.

Exceptional Living Spaces

From the moment you step through the grand entrance, “The School House” enchants with its characterful features, including exposed beams, original stonework, and large, light-filled windows. The spacious living areas are a testament to refined craftsmanship, with carefully restored period details and high-quality finishes throughout. The generous lounge, complete with a feature fireplace, original clock tower workings, offers a warm and inviting space for relaxation, while the elegant dining room in an orangery is perfect for entertaining guests complete with underfloor heating. Benefiting from a utility area again with under floor heating, further snug and a study/bedroom 4, with a downstairs WC.

Modern Comforts with Historic Charm

The property boasts a stunning bespoke modern kitchen, fitted with premium appliances and crafted to enhance both functionality and aesthetic appeal, again with the modern luxury of underfloor heating.

SELLER INSIGHT

“The setting, character of the building, and spacious layout were all instantly appealing – especially the large rooms,” say Dee and Geoff, owners of this beautifully refurbished Grade II listed school house. “As keen gardeners, we saw the potential right away and have really enjoyed developing the outdoor space. One of life’s great pleasures has been sitting quietly, watching the birds go about their business in the garden.”

Since moving in, they have made various improvements. “We fitted a new kitchen with an island and granite countertops two years ago and have installed a new boiler and added a log burner to the snug. School House offers a lot of space, with a good combination of large, impressive rooms and cosier areas to retreat to. It’s a great space for entertaining.” They add, “we currently have the house configured with three bedrooms and a study, but there is potential for four bedrooms.”

With two pairs of patio doors and plenty of light streaming in, the house’s connection to the outside is excellent. “Double doors lead from the kitchen and orangery, creating a seamless flow from inside to out. The orangery is a wonderful, warm space to spend time in all year round,” explain the owners. “School House has great character with beautiful features, including an old school room with high ceilings and a mezzanine level. The property even has a working clock in its own little tower!

As a detached corner plot, the property boasts wrap-around patios and gardens, along with two established apple trees. “There are sweet-smelling rose gardens, lawns, well-planted beds, and areas designed for outdoor dining. The double garage, electric gates, and parking space for 2-3 cars offer convenience and security. There is space for our hens, and the garden is largely dog-proof.” They add, “we love the central location, next door to the village church, which remains wonderfully quiet and private. With no nearby street lighting, it’s a fantastic spot for stargazing.”

“We get on well with the neighbours and have enjoyed helping with local fundraising activities. While we love spending time at home, we appreciate the luxury of being able to step out the door for a walk or visit a nearby village pub. For further amenities, Ashbourne – seven miles away – has a good selection of shops and schools.”*
