The Buckstone House

Staunton

Located in the Royal Forest of Dean, this substantial six-bedroom country house offers a rare chance to enjoy rural living with direct access to one of the UK's most beautiful natural landscapes. Set above the village of Staunton and within easy reach of Monmouth, its well-regarded schools, and major road links, the property dates back to the 18th century and has been thoughtfully extended and updated over the years.

A former Coach House has been converted into a well-presented two-bedroom cottage, with two parking bays underneath—ideal for guests or extended family. The 3.17-acre plot includes mature gardens, sun terraces, a tennis court, and an outdoor swimming pool. There's also a fenced paddock with a horse shelter, perfect for those with equestrian interests, and excellent outriding directly from the lane. A long row of outbuildings includes a separate office, offering flexibility for home working or hobby use. This is an ideal home for anyone looking to make the most of country life—space, privacy, and access to miles of forest walks and riding trails, right on the doorstep.

The exterior is painted render with inset mainly double-glazed wooden windows (front windows have external louvred shutters), some are sashed with internal panelled shutters and there are wooden doors, all set under pitched tiled roofs. Internal features include; quarry tiled, flagstone and wooden boarded floors, moulded skirtings and architraves, stripped pine panelled doors and coved ceilings. Bespoke fully fitted, full height wardrobes to most bedrooms. Oil fired central heating with radiators throughout.
