

1, Prispfen House Prispfen Drive Silverton, Exeter, EX5 4DR

A substantial 4 bedroom 'townhouse style' residence in corner plot location at the beginning of this sought after residential development which quietly nestles amidst superbly maintained communal grounds and glorious Devonshire countryside on the rural outskirts of Silverton. The well appointed and spacious accommodation is arranged over three storeys and early viewings are highly recommended to avoid disappointment.

Prispfen House is an impressive private residential development designed to reflect the architecture of the original village Rectory. Sadly, the old building was destroyed by fire in 1990 and was rebuilt in 2002 as a new development and one large building comprising a mix of nine townhouses and six apartments. Each property has either an integral garage or an allocated garage situated on the east side and there is also a designated parking space for each property to the south of the building. Several spaces are also allocated for visitors parking and emergency vehicle access. Prispfen House is set in extensive and very attractive communal grounds overlooking the village, with views towards Exmoor and Dartmoor from upper floors and heightened ground levels. These grounds are for the exclusive use of all the residents' at Prispfen House.

Silverton lies just 8 miles from Exeter along the valley of the River Exe on route to Tiverton which lies a similar distance to the north. Silverton offers a good range of amenities, including church, inns, primary school, post office and general store, and there are some lovely walks to be enjoyed in the surrounding countryside. Exeter offers excellent transport links by road (M5, A38 & A30). Rail and air travel is provided via with the regional airport, expanding rapidly to provide services to numerous holiday destinations.
