A little more information

10 The Row is a deceptively spacious, mid terrace, stone built cottage with a cosy back cottage, forming part of the historically famous Twelve Apostles set in the heart of the pretty west coast village of Catacol. The Apostles enjoy an uninterrupted westerly aspect with spectacular sunsets over the Kintyre Peninsula. The entire row was upgraded in 1992. At that time all the row were refurbished including re-slating the roofs, dry lined, rewiring and replumbing internally.

The Twelve Apostles terrace is one of the Arran's most iconic landmarks, which are "B" listed by Historic Scotland. Further information on this can be accessed on the Historic Environment Scotland website. www.historic-scotland.gov.uk/index/heritage.htm.
