A stunning period stone-built country house in the thriving Somerset village of Badgworth with a recently built architect-designed contemporary extension, creating a warm, bright family home. Hare House has been lovingly renovated by the current owners with much emphasis on light and practicality. The design includes floor to ceiling windows, roof lanterns, velux windows and with energy saving in mind, solar panels and central heating via a ground source heat pump. The extensive accommodation includes a separate indoor swimming pool complex and large timber barn/workshop. The plot extends to 6.34 acres with a level paddock to the rear and wide, unspoilt countryside views towards Crook Peak.
