GENERAL REMARKS

Clungunford Farm House is a characterful detached period residence which dates back to the seventeenth century and originally built of timber frame with brick infill under a pitched slate roof.

The building is a quintessential rambling farmhouse which has a plethora of characterful features both inside and outside. Whilst it requires modernisation and refurbishment, the potential to return this residence to a former glory is unbounded and should appeal to those looking to make their own stamp on a home in a sympathetic manner.

The house has extensive accommodation arranged over three storeys with 5 bedrooms including a connected 1 bedroom annex with its own kitchen, utility, lounge and bathroom. This would be perfect for multi-generational living or as an Airbnb business. The main house has two further receptions with a farmhouse kitchen, utility, shower and bathroom and cellar.

Outside, to the front are formal lawns with mature trees with views out beyond the village to open countryside. Whilst to the rear is a further garden and yard with ample open parking, together with an L-shaped range of stone stables/loose boxes, ideal for refurbishment to annex or home office subject to consent.

LOCATION

Clungunford Farm House is located in the heart of this popular village and enjoys an attractive rural setting surrounded by stunning countryside. The village features a parish church, a lively village hall, bowling green and play area.

Ludlow lies to the east, within easy reach with a selection of independent and state schools, high street, shopping, bars and restaurants and an abundance of culture including the renowned Ludlow Food Festival.

To the north and south lie the towns of Shrewsbury and Hereford. Travel links in the area are good with the A49 linking to two towns and beyond to the national rail and road network.
