Bryn Llwyd is a three-bedroom house spread across three floors and situated within walking distance of Bangor train station. The property has an attractive bathroom with bath and overhead shower, and a separate WC adjoining the conservatory. A generously sized living room comes with sofa and fireplace, while the large kitchen has a wealth of storage space. Attached to the kitchen is the conservatory, which has a dining table and chairs and leads to a decked section of the garden which is perfect for entertaining on sunny days. Each of the bedrooms are a good size and are furnished with beds and storage and private parking for multiple cars is available to the front of the property.
