Location

Hitcham is a charming hamlet, with homes from every era clustered along the country road between Causeway House Farm and All Saints Parish Church – an impressive building dating back to the 14th century. Surrounded by an unmistakably English scene of patchwork countryside fields, you'll find much to enjoy locally.

In addition to the beautiful views, woodlands and picturesque settlements, Hitcham's modern Village Hall hosts numerous events and produce sales, while the adventure playground is perfect for children to enjoy.

Hitcham Post Office and Stores – conveniently located just a minute or two's walk from home – offers freshly-baked cakes on top of handy day-to-day necessities, and more extensive household groceries and supplies can be found a short drive away at Bildeston's mini-market, and wider range of well-known stores is also available in Stowmarket, around seven miles away.

For cosy family meals or intimate drinks with friends within three miles of home, The King's Head or Crown at Bildeston, and the Punch Bowl in Battisford all come well-recommended locally for their tasty traditional menus, great range of ales and a friendly atmosphere – as does the quaint Peacock in beautiful Chelsworth. However, the wider region is replete with a range of village inns and old coach houses in a variety of historic settings, giving you much to explore and sample.

Of course, the delights and opportunities of town are never far away. Seven miles drive from home, charming Stowmarket hosts a range of high-quality eateries and independent shops, as well as entertainment at The Regal Theatre and the John Peel Centre for the Performing Arts. Meanwhile, Bury St Edmunds, around 14 miles away, is famed for its breathtaking cathedral, vast abbey ruins, Theatre Royal and Greene King Brewery, but also hosts numerous high street brands, household names and fashionable boutiques within its contemporary Arc shopping centre and historic streets.

You'll also find day can easily turn to evening with Bury's large choice of eateries, from familiar franchises to fine dining restaurants, historic pubs, family bistros, coffee houses and specialist international cuisine. Alternatively, Ipswich's modern shopping centres, marina bars and eateries, theatres and cinemas, are all the same distance from home.

Those with younger children will be pleased to note the nearby primary school in Bildeston (rated ' Good' by Ofsted), or may wish to take advantage of the prep school at Old Buckenham Hall, around three miles away, where they can receive an attentive, quality education from ages 3 to 13. A range of well-regarded secondary schools are available in Stowmarket, Ipswich and Bury St Edmunds, with easy direct road connections.
