SPORTING ACTIVITIES

One of Wolsey Park's closest neighbours is Rayleigh Town Sports & Social Club, home to pitches for football and cricket, a pavilion and a friendly bar, adjoining which will be two more football pitches of our own. Up the road on Rawreth Lane are a further three pitches used by Rayleigh Cricket Club's six active teams. 1.5 miles away is the upmarket Rayleigh Club; home to three golf courses and a sophisticated lounge bar and restaurant.

OUTDOOR SPACES AND PARKS

Nearby Sweyne Park offers a mix of woodland and open spaces with a modern children's play area, pond, several pathways and a 2km bridleway. Across town, King George V Playing Field is home to Rayleigh Bowls Club and features two football pitches, a snack bar, skate park and a large playground. Meanwhile, south of Rayleigh Grange Community Centre, the 65 acres of Wheatley Wood, planted 20 years ago in partnership with the Woodland Trust, is ripe for exploration.

Beautifully-maintained, mixing history and the countryside with the best in modern life, it's obvious to see why Rayleigh is such a sought-after place to live.

ATTRACTIONS FOR EVERYONE

As you'd expect in a historic market town, Rayleigh has its share of landmarks. Rayleigh Mount, the site of an early Norman castle, dominates the town centre, with the striking 19th-Century Rayleigh Windmill standing nearby. At the top of the High Street, you'll find Holy Trinity parish church with its Norman chancel and 15th-Century bell tower constructed with stone from the disused castle.

To really let your hair down, try the MegaCentre - a palace of family fun with multi-level soft play, laser tag, sensory play, youth clubs, movie nights and a café.

Step back in time and visit the historic Rayleigh Windmill, an award-winning tourist and educational attraction with a host of exhibitions throughout the year to discover.
