Agents Note

"This well-positioned property offers a unique opportunity for transformation into a truly impressive family home. Set within approximately half an acre of mature grounds, the existing dwelling presents enormous potential for extension and reconfiguration, subject to necessary planning consents. The expansive plot allows for a variety of design options — from contemporary open-plan layouts to substantial wrap-around or side extensions — enabling the creation of spacious living rooms, versatile entertaining zones, and multiple bedrooms tailored to family needs. With ample outdoor space, future owners may also consider landscaped gardens, a home office, or even an independent annexe. This is a rare find combining the charm of a generous setting and the freedom to shape a bespoke, future-proofed home in a prime location.

Redevelopment of existing properties—such as knocking down a single dwelling to build new homes—can be feasible, especially on large or underutilized plots, provided new designs respect the village character, landscape buffers, and community interests. There is precedent for new, small-scale residential developments and recent permissions for new-builds, suggesting one-for-one replacements or small clusters may be achievable if sensitively designed. Strategic sites like Homestead View focus on larger developments but reinforce the principle of respecting landscape buffers and biodiversity, which individual projects must also consider.
