HEADINGTON • OXFORD

Beautiful & historic Oxford

OXFORD is a beautiful, world-famous city with two Universities, excellent shopping, many fascinating museums and a long and illustrious heritage.

The Radcliffe Camera is part of the Bodleian Library and dates from the mid 18th century. Many of the University's colleges are open to Oxford residents free of charge and are another world of history and tranquillity.

A herd of cows grazes on Christ Church Meadow, and Magdalen College even has a deer park – both right in the city centre.

Many major tech and innovation employers are located within easy reach of the City and Headington, which is also home to the city's main hospitals.

A lively local community

HEADINGTON is an attractive part of Oxford, located to the city's east. There are plenty of places to eat, a weekly farmers' market, several supermarkets – including a Waitrose – and a range of independent shops, with a fishmonger and ironmonger. Bury Knowle Park is just two minutes' walk from Quarry Gate. It has a public library, playground and sports facilities including crazy golf, tennis courts, and a new cafe.

Oxford's main hospitals – The John Radcliffe, Nuffield Orthopaedic and Churchill – are all located within a few minutes of Quarry Gate.

Oxford has many independent schools, with those nearby including Headington Rye, Magdalen College school and New College school. Local primary and secondary schools are rated either good or excellent by Ofsted.

Shotover country park lies on the edge of Headington, an ancient forest with lovely views, which is great for dog walking.
