Location

The Donkey public house is situated in Charles Hill which is a hamlet in Tilford located 3 miles south-east of Farnham and 1.6 miles north-east and west of Tilford and Elstead respectively. The property is situated within the Surrey Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. Nearby Farnham and Guildford offer a comprehensive range of leisure, retail and commercial facilities and are served by mainline stations to London Waterloo.

The Donkey occupies a location on the B3001 which connects Elstead and Farnham with the plot nestled below the road and adjacent to a small number of residential dwellings with forest land surrounding. The area is administered by Waverley Borough Council.

Description

The Donkey is a former cottage converted to a public house c.1850 and is detached two storey property of brick construction with part painted, rendered and exposed brick elevations under a pitched slate roof. The Donkey benefits from ground floor commercial space comprising two rooms with a central porch providing access.

The right section includes and small bar servery (8 seats and 2 bar stools) with a back of house route to the left dining room (18) and on to the conservatory (24). Ancillary space to the rear includes a trade kitchen and customer WCs.

The first floor living accommodation comprises two bedrooms, office, bathroom and WC.

External Areas

Customer areas are located to the rear patio and garden and provide 82 seats around benches. An outbuilding provides beer cellar and storage. Uniquely, a large section of the garden is allocated to the care of a donkey which benefits from a stable and yard. Located to the east is a tarmac car park providing 20 spaces.
