WELCOME TO WONDERFUL
PEMBROKESHIRE

Set at the westernmost tip of Pembrokeshire, St Davids is one of the most breathtakingly beautiful places in Wales. Big skies, a rugged coastline and golden beaches make it a popular destination for everyone from surfers to walkers, while many people visit for rest and relaxation in the grounds of its extraordinary cathedral.

Famous as the legendary birthplace of Wales' patron saint, St Davids is the UK's smallest city. It has a long and fascinating history; it's said that the cathedral and picturesque bishop's palace were built in a dip so that Viking raiders couldn't spot them from the sea. On the edge of town, St Non's well is rumoured to have sprung up when St Non gave birth to St David on the site of the neighbouring chapel. Now a ruin, the chapel sits within a stone circle overlooking the sea.

BRITAIN'S TINIEST CITY
ST DAVIDS

At the heart of St Davids is a network of pretty streets lined with stone and colour-washed buildings; these include a generous helping of boutiques, galleries, cafes and restaurants—despite its relatively small size, St Davids has an abundance of excellent places to eat and drink, from fine dining to buzzy, informal options.

One of Pembrokeshire's most desirable places to live, St Davids offers a supreme quality of life in a friendly community, surrounded by stunning coast and countryside. There are several destination beaches nearby, including surfing hotspot Whitesands Bay; Porthselau, a tranquil hidden cove; and Porthlysgi Bay, a beautiful spot for swimming. Caerfai Bay, with its rockpools and striking grey, green and vivid pink rocks, is a 20-minute walk from Maes-Y-Felin.

MAES-Y-FELIN

Just a couple of minutes on foot from the centre of St Davids but also on the edge of the countryside, Maes-Y-Felin is a tranquil development built to uncompromisingly high standards.

Inside these traditionally-built homes you'll find oak floors and doors, granite worktops and luxurious bathrooms with floor-to-ceiling tiles; and fibre broadband (FTTP). Outside there are slate roofs, detached garages with electricity, charging points for electric vehicles, and numerous other thoughtful touches. We've provided generous lawns and gardens and left plenty of space between the homes, creating an attractive, relaxing environment.

A thoughtfully designed modern dormer bungalow, this home is perfect for everyone, from growing families to retirees. It has four double bedrooms – one downstairs and three upstairs, along with a downstairs shower room, upstairs family bathroom and ensuite shower room.

A generous, free-flowing kitchen, dining and family area makes entertaining a breeze, while the adjoining conservatory adds extra space for relaxing and enjoying the views of the large, enclosed garden. Both the conservatory and the family area open directly onto the patio, so you can easily dine al fresco on finer days.

The house is traditionally built using the very best materials, giving it solidity and longevity. Time-honoured touches such as native Pennant stone, slate roof tiles and oak flooring combine with forward-thinking additions such as FTTP broadband and a charging point for electrical vehicles, to ensure you'll face no extra costs once you move into your home. You can also add bespoke touches to ensure your home is perfect from the outset.

After working in the housebuilding industry for over 20 years, qualified town planner Gareth Rhys Davies realised there was a niche market for bespoke, luxurious homes that were also accessibly priced. While some developers focus on high density developments and cost-cutting building techniques, Gareth wanted to create homes with a sense of space and style, built with materials he knew would endure and stay looking authentic and attractive.

The result was the formation of GRD Homes in 2014. A small, family-run firm, it places an emphasis on a high level of customer service that's personal, professional and detailed. GRD Homes employs the best-qualified tradespeople, uses quality, branded materials and factors in environmental considerations to create sustainable homes that can be tailored to meet individual needs. Plenty of thoughtful details are included, from fast fibre broadband to charging points for vehicles.

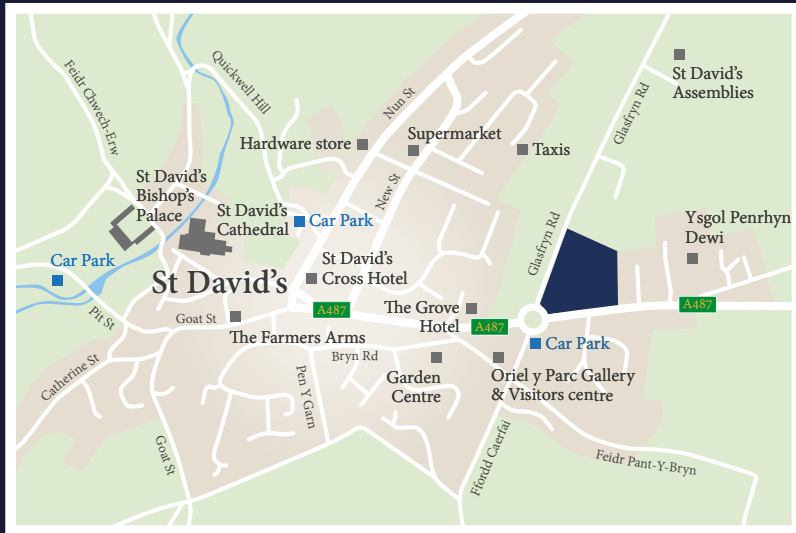

GRD Homes prides itself on meticulous attention to detail and provides a 10-year guarantee for every home. A commitment to creating spacious, attractive developments has made GRD homes synonymous with building timeless bungalows and dormer bungalows. The success of its previous developments in Carmarthenshire and West Wales has helped to build the firm's reputation and assure its future.
