Location

Earlston is a historic town situated in the Lauderdale Valley to the north east of the central borders, conveniently located for access to the main Borders towns. It is an attractive town reported to date back to the 1200's and lays its claim to fame as the home of Thomas Learmonth, better known as Thomas the Rhymer.

The settlement is a bustling town situated on the edge of the A68 trunk road. It has a population of approximately 1,779 according to the 2011 population census, an increase of around 4% of the population recorded in 2001 and has a good degree of passing traffic.

The market Square which was laid out as a rose garden to mark the coronation of Queen Elizabeth and provides a pleasant town square and centre. The town benefits from a good selection of local facilities including some independent shops, public houses, a church, reputable schools with a newly completed high school at Georgefield to the east of the town all within walking distance of the property. The town is well placed for commuting to the main borders towns and Edinburgh.
