About The Property

Family-Friendly 3 Bedroom Property with Thoughtfully Designed Garden and Play Area – Close to Aberporth and the Cardigan Bay Coast

Looking for a well-maintained family home in a coastal village near Cardigan Bay?

This smartly laid-out property in Parcllyn has a standout garden, flexible living space, and a location that keeps both the beach and amenities within easy reach.

This well-presented home sits at the side of a cul-de-sac in the coastal village of Parcllyn, just a short drive from Aberporth's sandy beach and the scenic Ceredigion coast path along Cardigan Bay. Originally built as part of an MOD/RAF development, this property has been in the same ownership for over 35 years and has clearly been well cared for. With practical features like built-in emergency lighting, clever storage, and thoughtfully positioned garden lighting, this house offers functionality as much as charm.

The front garden, set behind a gated entrance, has been neatly kept with mature hedging, decorative borders and a tidy path leading to the front door and around to the rear garden. Although compact, it sets a warm tone on arrival and shows the attention to detail that continues throughout the property.

Inside, the ground floor offers a practical layout, beginning with a hallway that includes a handy understairs cupboard—ideal for hiding away washing machines and other household items. The lounge sits at the front of the house with a bay window, built-in TV stand, and a wall-mounted electric fire adding a cosy focal point.

Across the hallway, the ground floor shower room includes a corner toilet, vanity basin and a double shower cubicle with built-in shelving—useful for busy mornings or visiting guests. The kitchen diner is well equipped, featuring matching wall and base units, a Bosch five-ring gas hob (LPG), Neff electric oven with extractor, built-in fridge and separate larder freezer.

The dining area also has a fitted electric fire and patio doors leading directly to the rear garden, creating a natural connection between indoor and outdoor spaces.

Upstairs, the landing is spacious with access to a built-in airing cupboard and loft. There are three bedrooms—two doubles with built-in wardrobes and vanity units, and a single with a distinctive feature window. The family bathroom is generously sized and includes both a bath and a double shower with massage jets and built-in seat.

Externally:

The rear garden is a standout feature and has been designed with purpose and care. A paved patio area outside the dining room doors provides a comfortable spot for outdoor meals and relaxing afternoons. The garden shed has lighting and power, making it more than just a storage space, and there's even an outside toilet tucked behind.

To the side of the property, an enclosed section provides storage for the oil tank and gas bottles, while a pergola draped with a mature creeper creates a shaded area to sit. Steps lead down to a lawn broken up by well-established borders, sculptures, and a small wildlife pond. A children's play shed with its own outdoor seating area sits tucked into the bottom corner—this spot could be reimagined as a garden store if needed. A further storage area for garden tools or waste is also available.

This home ticks all the right boxes for those looking to settle in a well-connected village along the West Wales coast, close to both nature and community life. It blends practicality with thoughtful touches throughout, making it a solid option for families or those looking to relocate near Cardigan Bay.
