About The Property

Set just outside Cardigan on the way to St Dogmaels, this modernised mid terrace property brings together classic character and practical space. A few steps lead up past a metal gate and onto a gravelled terrace-style garden that gives a bit of breathing room from the road. The front door opens into a small entrance hall with access to the front lounge. A bay window adds light, while the fireplace—with its slate hearth and wooden surround—anchors the room in a traditional feel.

Back through the hallway, there’s a handy storage cupboard under the stairs and then into the second sitting room. Another fireplace adds a focal point here too, and the space works well as a more relaxed living area or could easily double as a snug or reading spot. Stairs to the first floor are also found here, tucked neatly to one side, and a door connects this room to the dining space.

The kitchen and dining areas are semi-open-plan. The kitchen runs along two sides, with a range of both base and wall units, gas hob, oven and an extractor fan. A tiled floor keeps things simple and there’s space and plumbing for a washing machine. Above, a PVC roof brings in good daylight to this part of the house. The dining area continues the run of base units, useful for storage or extra workspace, and there’s room for a small table and chairs.

Off the rear hallway is the modern family bathroom. It has a straightforward layout with a bath, electric shower over, WC and basin—functional yet thoughtfully designed.

Upstairs, the landing leads to three bedrooms. The front bedroom is the biggest, with space for a double bed and a view that stretches across to the River Teifi. Bedroom two is also a double and includes a built-in storage cupboard, which could easily take a wardrobe or be used for linen. The third bedroom is a single and has a small step down into it, making it a good fit for a child’s room, office, or hobby space.

Continued:
Outside, the back of the property is practical and tidy. There’s a gravel parking space for a couple of cars and a gravel and paved seating area behind the house—an easy-care option for anyone not keen on lawn maintenance. There are a few steps from the back door up to the main part of the garden, which also includes a tucked-away space useful for bins or extra storage.

It’s a straightforward house with a flexible layout and good bones.

The location puts Cardigan within walking distance, while also giving quicker access towards St Dogmaels and the coast beyond. Ideal for someone looking to move straight in. It’s a spot that works for both everyday living and longer-term potential.
