About The Property

Looking for a bungalow with both comfort inside and a garden designed for productivity with no onward chain? This three-bedroom home in West Wales offers spacious living, conservatory, snug with log burner, and around 0.47 acre of land with orchard, greenhouse, polytunnel and vegetable plot, all close to Cardigan Bay.

This three-bedroom bungalow offers a comfortable balance of generous living areas and practical spaces, arranged to flow easily from room to room. Set within just under half an acre of gardens, it combines a homely interior with outdoor areas that have been thoughtfully planned for growing, keeping animals, and enjoying the countryside setting.

A porch at the front opens into the central hallway, which links the main living spaces with the bedrooms and has useful storage cupboards. The living room is a bright, well-proportioned space, with doors leading directly into the sunroom – a room that brings the outside in, with garden views and access straight out to the patio, and a log burning stove for winter warmth.

The heart of the home is the kitchen and dining room, fitted with modern wall and base units, worktops, and a range of integrated appliances including an eye-level oven, hob and extractor, fridge and dishwasher. There is plenty of space for a dining table, making it a natural gathering point. From here, a door leads into the snug – a more intimate sitting space with windows to two sides, a wood burning stove on a tiled hearth, and a warm atmosphere that suits quieter evenings.

The rear lobby connects the kitchen with further practical rooms. The utility room provides space for laundry and additional storage, with a separate shower room and WC close by. A useful boot room houses the oil boiler and provides direct garden access, ideal for muddy boots and coats.

Externally:

Externally, the gardens are a real highlight. To the front, a gated driveway leads to a garage, with lawns to one side and mature shrubs and hedging providing a neat approach. At the rear, the gardens extend to around half an acre and have been carefully sectioned to maximise use and enjoyment. Closer to the house is a patio and lawn areas, with ornamental planting and a flower beds. Beyond this, the grounds become more productive, with an orchard of fruit trees, a polytunnel and a potting shed/greenhouse for growing produce, and a fenced section that was previously used as a vegetable garden – all of which offer excellent scope for self-sufficiency. Outbuildings include a chicken hutch, storage sheds, and a dog run, making the space adaptable for those looking to keep animals or increase homegrown produce. Solar panels add an energy-efficient element, supporting the property's practical appeal.

The detached double garage has two roller doors, power and lighting, and an outbuilding currently used as kennels, with two smaller rooms and one larger central space, with power, lighting and water tap, and an attached storeroom which could be used as a garden shed or animal feed store.

The layout and land combine to create a bungalow that is both comfortable to live in and rewarding to manage outside, with scope to develop further if desired. Positioned in the countryside of West Wales, with views from several rooms and easy access to the coastline of Cardigan Bay, it offers a lifestyle that blends modern comfort with outdoor opportunity.

Viewing is highly recommended to appreciate both the accommodation and the garden’s potential.
