Description

Originally part of the Hamsterley Hall Estate gifted to the Swinburne family by Charles I in the 17th Century, the woodlands are now a commercial mix of conifers with a scattering of native broadleaves. Stands of 1960s mature Scots pine are intermixed with Japanese larch and an understorey of native broadleaves. Further significant restocking in the 1990s focused on restocking with mixed conifers, predominantly Sitka and Norway spruce and mixed broadleaves. The four most recently restocked areas are comprised of Sitka spruce Douglas fir and Scots pine. These areas are growing well, especially on the fertile gley soils. The western half of the property is predominantly classed as Ancient Replanted Woodland. The western half is mostly unclassified and well-suited to future rotations of commercial conifers. There is great sporting potential for roe stalking within the woodlands.

The two main access routes into the property are suitable for HGV traffic and have been tried and tested. These are shown at A1 and A2 on the Sale Plan. The internal forest roads are well-built and will require only minimal maintenance in future years. Other access points into the woodlands will require some upgrading but have been used in previous harvesting operations.

Nearby sawmills include Harelaw Sawmill, Consett (5 miles), James Jones, Gateshead (9 miles) Egger, Hexham (17 miles) and TaylorMade, Durham (21 miles).
