Building pride into your home

At Campbell Buchanan George, we recognise that your home is an expression of you, your family, your lifestyle and your personal taste. Your home should create comfort and a sense of well-being; provide space for leisure, entertainment and work, and deliver the ultimate environment in which you can relax and enjoy life.

For over 25 years we have been taking pride in creating this for individuals, couples and families. We achieve this by keeping a constant and keen eye on quality, from the selection of the location, design, build, craftsmanship and finish in every home, to the superior service for which we are renowned. We are also proud to confirm our commitment to local communities, the environment and above all, to our customers.

Campbell Buchanan George focuses on unique, bespoke developments in a variety of locations ranging from city centres to the fringes of villages and completely rural settings. The quality of the location is paramount in our decision to acquire land and once it is secured, we apply sensitivity in design to create homes that both benefit and respect their surroundings.

Design must always embrace the needs and desires of our customers and their changing lifestyles. Our 'blank page' approach to each development allows us to continually adapt and improve our homes to reflect the current needs of our customers whilst ensuring our developments mature, rather than date, by creating a true sense of place. This approach is complemented by innovation in construction methods, systems and products, as well as superior quality in construction, fixtures and finishes of both our homes and the build environment.
