Pencerrig, Mathry – A Characterful Period Home with Far-Reaching Countryside Views

Set in the heart of the charming village of Mathry, Pencerrig enjoys outstanding panoramic views from the rear towards the Preseli Hills, offering a peaceful rural outlook across the rolling North Pembrokeshire countryside.

This distinctive home was built in 1896 by Master Mariner James Lewis following his return from sea, on land purchased from the then landlord of the Farmers Arms, William Williams. A fascinating piece of its history – the original property deeds – remains proudly displayed in the dining room, adding a unique historical charm.
