A Rare Opportunity to Own a Piece of Pembrokeshire History

Step into the charm of a bygone era with Yr Swyddfa'r Post, a truly enchanting Grade II listed cottage once serving as the village post office. The current owners have transformed the property into a warm and welcoming family home which is now looking for its next chapter of new owners to put their own stamp on it and create their own story within these historic walls.

Adding to its unique character, one of the cottage's most fascinating features is an original "benchmark stone" retained within the wall of the property. These carved surveyor's marks, used by the Ordnance Survey in the 19th century to record height above sea level, provide a rare and tangible link to the property's rich history.

This remarkable property is brimming with character, versatility and potential – all set in around 2.5 acres of magical gardens and grounds with an orchard & established fish pond.

Nestled in the quiet hamlet of Rhosfach, just moments from the stunning Pembrokeshire National Park, the property offers an extraordinary lifestyle opportunity – perfect for those seeking tranquillity, space, and the flexibility of a self-contained lodge for guests, family or holiday letting.

The Main House -The four-bedroom cottage blends history with comfort.

- A cosy living room sets the scene for family gatherings and quiet evenings by the log burner fires that adorn either end of the room..
- Adding to the unique charm & heritage, the original King George post box has been thoughtfully retained within the façade.
- The characterful kitchen which is steeped in history balances tradition with practicality. Occupying the area that once served as the village blacksmiths forge. The wood burning range cooker not only creates a charming focal point but also provides heating for the room.
