Entering the reception room, you'll encounter a glorious bay window framed by original Victorian cornicing, and plentiful inbuilt shelving, including a minimalistic white bookcase. Adjacent is the bathroom, with micro mosaic desert effect tiling on the full-sized bathtub, a wall-mounted mirror above the freestanding ceramic sink, and a mirrored cabinet too. The first bedroom (situated opposite the coal chute basement) boasts two double wardrobes and a double glazed door to the private garden (blimey, that's a lot of doubles). Stepping through to the garden, you'll be rather impressed by the owner's dedication to landscaping – it's rather hard to fault – with a perfectly sized patio (completed by gorgeous iron terrace furniture and parasol), weathered brick wall, splendid lawn area, intricately laid stone pathway, charming flowerbed hosting mature shrubbery and trees, and a gorgeous pastel green outhouse currently being used as storage, but with potential to be used as a secret reading den, outside home office, or miniature Batcave. A door to the second bedroom greets you around the corner, featuring a graphite coloured carpet, dark wooden blinds, double wardrobe
