A stunning period home in the village of Milton in Derbyshire. Set on a private gated plot on roughly an acre of land with a separate annex and double detached garage to the rear. The land is gated with a tack room with 2 loose boxes. The main house boasts ample versatile accommodation over both floors.

Entering into the hallway that benefits from a WC, there is access into the living room, snug and stairs to the first floor. The living room has an exposed brick feature fireplace and bi-fold doors that open in a family room that has access into the garden. leading from the snug there is an inner hallway that leads to two ground floor bedrooms that have a jack & jill ensuite and there is a country style kitchen/diner that has Granite worktops, an Aga Oven and Rangemaster Cooker with a separate utility room and a boot room. To the first floor there are two well proportioned double bedrooms and a three piece bathroom consisting of a bath, WC and wash basin. The main bedroom has ample built in storage and an ensuite shower room, while bedroom two also has ample built in storage.

The separate annex is completely self contained with a living room, kitchen/diner, double bedroom and en-suite bathroom consisting of a bath with shower overhead, WC and wash basin. There is also a separate double detached garage and parking space for several vehicles. Beyond the annex there is gated land with a tack room with 2 loose boxes and a range of mature trees, shrubs and fenced boundaries.

Milton has a history that dates back several centuries. Like many villages in Derbyshire, its origins likely stem from the medieval period, with agriculture being the primary occupation of its early inhabitants. The village's layout and some of its buildings still reflect this long history, with traditional stone cottages and historic farmhouses.

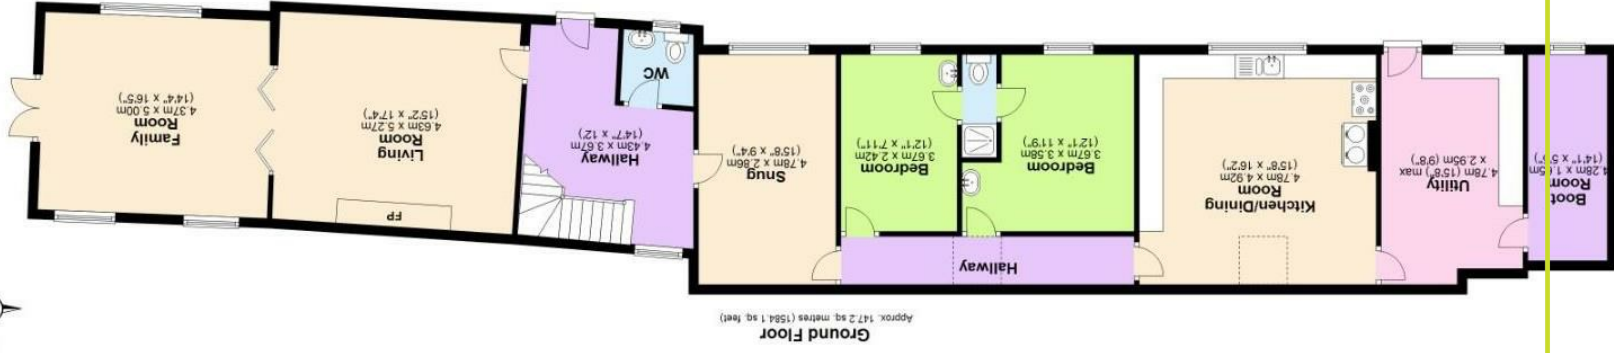

The nearby Calke Abbey is a historic estate located near the village of Ticknall in Derbyshire, England. Unlike many other grand estates, Calke Abbey is often referred to as the "un-stately home" because it has been preserved in a state of decline, offering a unique glimpse into the past. Visitors to Calke Abbey can explore the house and grounds, with many rooms open to the public. The National Trust offers guided tours that provide insights into the history of the estate and its inhabitants.
